FIELD GROWN TUBERS

Our shipping tubers are the finest it is possible to produce, true to name and free from disease. They have not been over stimulated.

Since sending out our last year's catalogue, it is evident that the culture of Dahlias has jumped ahead by leaps and bounds. 1923 registered more Dahlia Shows than ever. There is nothing to hinder 1924 being our banner year.

I was fortunate in being able to attend the 1923 San Francisco Dahlia Show on returning from a poultry judging engagement at the State Fair, Sacramento, and was honored by being placed on the list of judges. I found both at San Francisco and Los Angeles that the California varieties were in the great majority. The same thing seems to work out in our own experiments. If it were not for our very large collection of imported English Cactus, our fields would be almost exclusively California varieties. We are especially strong on such leaders as Bessie Boston and Broomall productions. We predict a great future for that wonderfully beautiful Broomall dahlia "Mr. Crowley." This should do well in the east and we are offering it this season. We have made it a business, the past season, to test out several of the Judge Marean varieties. Mrs. I. de Ver Warner is the one outstanding popular Marean variety in California.

At Los Angeles again this year we were awarded First on Cactus Dahlias, included in our exhibit were such varieties as F. W. Fellows, Mrs. Alfred Harvey, Mrs. D. B. Crane, Sweetbriar, Amber Glow, Los Angeles. We were also fortunate in taking First on Show Dahlias, these included such varieties as Mrs. J. P. Smith, Tom Jones, King of Shows and General Miles.

Our 1923 Seedlings have been more wonderful than ever—the admiration of our many visitors. We have several 1922 Seedlings that show great promise.

It is important to collect seed from varieties possessing good habit and stem, flowers of good formation, size and color. We have discarded Geisha entirely although in the past this variety has been a popular mother plant. Besides we are not favorable to procuring peony type seed. Our 1923 seed is the very choicest we have been able thus far to select for ourselves and our customers. One of these, winning first prize at his show on a U. S. A. Seedling from our seed, has enthusiastically come back for more.

When we pride ourselves on the quality of our field grown tubers, we mean to convey the idea that they are not the ordinary over stimulated garden stock but are clean, bright, not too coarse, free from disease and are sent out to grow strong plants as they are doing here with us.

We now have a splendidly equipped plant and hope to handle the 1924 business according to our customers' requirements. If you desire any varieties not listed in our catalogue or any information, write us.

A. G. Goodacre, Manager.

CULTURE OF DAHLIAS

It is as well to understand what the dahlia tuber is and how obtained. In the first place it is a division from a clump of tubers radiating out from the base of the plant's stem underneath the ground. These enlarged roots have to be cut with a piece of the adjoining stem, or color as we term it, as this is the only place where sprouts originate, and it is best to let the eyes develop in the spring before cutting up the clump, as there are many blind tubers, that is, there are not enough eyes to serve all the tubers on the clump.

A sprout on the tuber can be destroyed after planting by insects drilling into it, by allowing it to become too dry, or by planting too deep in wet soil, thereby rotting it. These are matters that should be understood, and which the shipper cannot be held accountable for. Stock at present is all government inspected, so as to insure only healthy stock being received. Fortunately the dahlia is very free from disease.

We hold a Nurserymen's License from the Department of Agriculture, Sacramento, Calif.

In planting have the soil rich and friable. They will stand lots of fertilizing with rotted barn-yard manure well mixed in soil or the commercial fertilizers. Tubers are planted about six inches deep, but only a part of the soil placed back in the hole at first till sprouts get well started. Select only one strong sprout, cutting away others that may appear. Allow the plant to throw out four or six laterals or side stems and then pinch out the middle leader of plant. This makes a bush of from four to six stems.

Two things are important in planting: Always place the tuber flat on its side, never on end, and have stakes driven or wires or trellis in place at time of planting, tying the young plant early before getting broken down by the wind.

There are various methods of growing dahlias. Some prefer sunken beds, some plant on ridges, and others employ level culture, and in applying water some prefer flooding in sunken beds, some water in furrows and others prefer overhead irrigation. Our own best dahlias are grown from plants that are staked between three and four feet each way or are tied up in rows on long trellises. The plants ranging some two feet apart. Some varieties need much more room than others according to the character of growth.

After frost the tops are cut back and lower stems allowed to dry up, then stems are cut off a little above the ground and the clumps dug around and lifted out and stored. They must not be frosted, neither allowed to wilt, so it is best to put them away in sand or loose dirt.

NONE SO FAIR. (Goodacre Registered)

Awarded a bronze medal at Los Angeles 1923 in class for three year old seedlings.

This 1921 Seedling offered for the first time this season, has all the good qualities desired and enhanced with a uniform shade of orchid pink without shading—exquisite hardly expresses it. The stem is perfect and it is a prolific bloomer.Price $3.00.

QUEEN ZENOBIA. (Registered)

Our Silver Cup Three-year-old Seedling and Certificate of Merit at Trial Gardens, San Rafael, California, 1920. Awarded American Dahlia Society Certificate of Merit at Storrs., Conn. Trial Grounds 1921. Awarded American Dahlia Society Certificate of Merit at College Park, Md. in 1922 with the wonderful score of 93 points under four judges.

This marvelous hybrid cactus dahlia is in color a pansy purple with lavender reverse having a delightful twist to petals that gives a beautiful blending of colors. It is a tall grower with foliage rather scant. The illustration, although taken in November when the flower was fully expanded, gives a pretty good idea of this Queen of Dahlias. We have an immense stock of it—the largest in the country—and the price is now within the reach of all.Price $5.00.

Our Display at Los Angeles, 1923.

COMPTON QUALITY. (Goodacre Registered)

This is a medium sized peony-flowered dahlia, a 1921 seedling, in a rich velvety bright red, many call it a Pointsettia red, fine for art work. It is a profuse bloomer and when fully out the petals stand apart and twist. It is a delightful flower on a good stem and is a good keeper. We have a large stock and can afford to introduce it at a low price.Price $2.00.

HALVELLA

This magnificent McWhirter 1923 introduction is not only a prize winner but a most captivating flower in a rich rose pink decorative, with size, good stem and keeping qualities and blooms continuously. We are fortunate in having a splendid stock of this high class variety.Price $3.50.

MacGREGOR

This is a Hybrid cactus Mastic creation introduced last year. Awarded American Society Certificate of Merit in 1922, it came to us highly recommended and has proved to be one of our best 1923 additions to our large collection. It is a very sturdy grower, profuse bloomer, the color spectrum red, both in color and character of bloom at once most attractive and pleasing. It makes a big bush four feet high. The foliage and stem are splendid.

Price $5.00.

MR. CROWLEY

This is a sensational flower, one of Mr. Broomall's best, a decorative of exquisite coloring, bright glowing salmon pink, shading to bright yellow at base of petals. It's beauty is further enhanced by being delicately overlaid with a violet glow. The substance of the flower and luxuriant deep green foliage is wonderful. As a cut flower it lasts for days. It is nearest to a Camelia in a dahlia that we have seen, a low grower with perfect stem.

Price $5.00.

SWEETBRIAR.

This variety, an imported English Cactus from Stredwick, apparently overlooked by growers, has done splendidly with us. It is a large globular flower of a beautiful shade of bright rose pink, grows upright on a good stem and was one of our first prize exhibits that won for us the Bullock Department Store Silver Cup. There is nothing more beautiful in a Cactus dahlia. Our stock is very high class.Price $1.00.

TOMMY ATKINS

In this 1923 introduction, Bessie Boston has given us the most dazzling red dahlia of the day. People fairly gasp when they behold it. It is a decorative on a perfect stem, an upright grower, the blooms large and what many people term bright scarlet, indeed well named.Price $4.00.

THE HUMORIST

This is a delightful art flower in a chocolate maroon peony, a 1921 seedling from Fantastique, the bloom being about five inches across, the center beautifully filled with curly petaloids, something entirely different. It has proved a great favorite with visitors the past two seasons with it's unique color and formation.Price $3.00.

NOTE:—In describing varieties the capital letter after name denotes classification; D, decorative type; C, cactus type; H. C., hybrid cactus; P, peony; S, show; Col, collarette; Pom, pom pon.

Zoe. Pale yellow tipped with white, very pretty.....	50c

DAHLIA SEED

The seed we sent out last season proved such a success that we are now offering it in two grades this year.

SPECIAL SELECTED

This is our regular high grade mixed seed as furnished last season; no seed is gathered from inferior varieties. The price is the same as last season. One Hundred Seeds for $1.00

DOUBLE SPECIAL

This is seed put up in twenty-five seeds to the package with name of parent bearing plant. For instance, there is a good demand for seed from the U. S. A., and this and many other good producers we can supply in this way. Besides, some people prefer to know the parentage of their seedlings. Twenty-five Seeds for 50 cents.

BOSTON SHOW

We donated a Sterling Silver Cup, made to order for us, to the New England Dahlia Society. It was awarded at their Boston Dahlia Show to John G. Carver & Son of Brockton, Mass., on the Best Exhibit of California varieties.

OUR 1924 SILVER CUP

At time of going to press with this catalogue we have made no arrangement in the matter. We believe, however, New Jersey is entitled to it.

A POULTRY PARAGRAPH

We breed a few Fancy Fowls and have been quite successful in winning ribbons at our shows. The past season has kept the manager decidedly busy with judging engagements.

We breed Light Barred Plymouth Rocks, quite strong in the old Latham blood. We are developing a fine flock of S. C. Rhode Island Reds, and have one of the finest flocks of Silver Sebright Bantams out west.

7000 DAHLIAS IN CULTIVATION

Prof. J. B. S. Norton's

New Book, giving names of varieties, originators or introducers, class and color. This new work, just off the press, mailed to you on receipt of $2.00.

PAYMENTS AND GUARANTEE

Tubers sent out are carefully selected and packed, guaranteed true to name and in good growing condition. Should any prove otherwise or there be any error on our part, we will cheerfully replace them.

We make no substitution for variety ordered without permission of purchaser.

We prepay all charges on orders amounting to $1.00 or more, retail trade; on orders under one dollar a charge of ten cents is made to cover postage and packing.

We are in splendid shape this season to take care of the Trade business.
